PS 230 5th Grade teacher Robyn Waters received the Bernard A. Cohen Social Studies Award for Excellence in Social Studies Education. This award, usually given only to middle school and high school social studies teachers, was presented to Ms. Waters by the Association of Teachers of Social Studies/UFT at their annual conference on Saturday, February 7th. Several students from Ms. Waters' 5th grade class presented their research on Latin America at the conference.

Congratulations, Ms. Waters!

Ms. Wray

"There's something very special about being a school-based clinician," says Wray. "You get the joy of seeing students grow and develop over the years. And I learn so much from my colleagues. We tell the kids that we're trying to cultivate them to be lifelong learners, and the same is true for me."

PS 230 students learn "The Art of the Brick" with Mr. Nathan Sawaya

In late August, Ms. Brill created a Donors Choose page seeking art supplies for her second and third grade students. Who should respond but Nathan Sawaya, the Lego artist best known for his recent exhibition "The Art of the Brick." During the first week of school, Mr. Sawaya met with students in Ms. Brill's art class, told them the story of how he became a lego artist and showed them examples of some of his masterpieces! The children were fascinated, and then delighted to discover that Mr. Sawaya had also brought boxes of art supplies for their classroom.

Please click on the link above to view Mr. Sawaya's blog entry on his visit to PS 230.

Congratulations, Ms. Brill! And, Thank You to the Lego Master, Mr. Nathan Sawaya.

Many of our teachers have created Donors Choose pages, seeking supplies for their classrooms and special projects. If you would like to support PS 230 teachers, please visit donorschoose.org and type "ps 230 brooklyn" in the keyword search.
